

EBRAHIM KESHAVARZ

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT,
MARKETING, PRODUCT AND CHANNEL MANAGEMENT

As senior vice president of marketing, product and channel management, Ebrahim Keshavarz is responsible for Verisign's global top-level domain product portfolio, go-to-market initiatives, registrar account management and tools.

Prior to joining Verisign in 2016, Eb spent 13 years with AT&T where he held various senior-level positions focusing on small business customers and leading teams in sales, product management, strategy and business development. He successfully led capital planning for their consumer business, as well as played an integral role in AT&T's integration with DirecTV. Eb also held senior product leadership positions at Google (formerly DoubleClick) and Hewlett-Packard (formerly Compaq). Earlier in his career, he worked as a financial analyst and consultant at the Boston Consulting Group and Morgan Stanley.

Eb holds a Master of Business Administration from Harvard University and a Bachelor of Arts in economics from Rice University.
